President's Message

WELCOME to a brand new year. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our volunteers and the many jobs they are fulfilling to keep the society functioning so well. I thank George Ridgeway for covering for me at the November meeting.

First, a great THANK YOU to Bob Witherspoon for the donation of an LED Projector. It is one of those items that the society has discussed at several board meetings and recently formed a committee to investigate the possible purchase. I would encourage each of you to continue to support the project, as many of the accessories that will be needed are also quite costly.

We have many volunteers doing important chores. Barbara Ricketts has been clipping, pasting and filing obituaries from local newspapers for quite some time, and she now has some helpers. Dottie Chandler is now helping with the clipping and Sylvia Ammons is helping with the filing. Diane Partington, our genealogist, continues to be busy researching for others. To these workers I say a special thank you for your time and efforts.

Are you aware that we have some very nice buttons (icons) on our website? These links will take you to several different websites. If you purchase your subscriptions and other purchases using the icon links, you will be supporting our society since those websites give a percentage of your purchase back to the society. A new program, (at least, I just found it) made available through the Federation of Genealogical Societies is for a subscription to Family Tree Magazine.

Have you submitted your queries to the newsletter or shared your brickwalls and successes at one of our monthly meetings? We have seen several people, within our own society, make connections with other members sharing their ancestors. Perhaps you have someone out there that can help you over one of those difficult walls and make an important connection.

I was gone for almost a month and enjoyed every minute visiting with my daughters on the east coast, and spent time reading on the plane. Have you spent time reading a genealogical publication recently? I found many wonderful and informative articles, especially in the NGS Quarterly journal.

The conference committee is very active. We would like very much to have some volunteers to help with many tasks related to the upcoming WSGS State conference. Just let us know that you are available.

Keep researching for those elusive ancestors, and if you need assistance, ASK.

Hazel Razar
 President

RENEW YOUR MEMBERSHIP

Just a friendly reminder that dues are now due for the Skagit Valley Genealogical Society. In the event you may have already paid, it is possible that they were sent in and just haven't reached me yet. Our year goes from Jan. 1st through Dec. 31st. Dues this year are $12.00 for single membership and $15.00 for family membership.

Comb Binding ...

For members, The society owns a comb binding machine. If you call Arnold Stewart at 360-466-3288 he will make arrangements to bind your pages into a book for you. Cost is: $1.00 per book to cover supplies.

The Skagit Valley Genealogical Society Newsletter accepts business card size advertisement. The cost will be $10.00 per issue and the editor can help put one together for you if you don't have something ready. If anyone would like queries or surnames to be posted in the newsletter, please send to... Ye Editor

You can help the Society by buying your favorite genealogical item of interest from our website through an affiliate program with the publishers. Simply click on the links to the magazine or website of your choice, pay for whatever you are interested in and the society will receive a small commission for you doing so.
A simple way to help contribute to Skagit Valley Genealogical Society and their ongoing works.

Skagit County News

History Comes Alive

Noel Bourasaw, publisher of the Skagit River Journal of History & Folklore, will bring local history to life at a free presentation on Saturday, February 16, at 1:00 p.m. at the Concrete Senior Center. Learn about the East County area and the people, activities and industries that have made it unique. The presentation includes time for sharing photos, family history and scrapbooks, as well as time for questions and discussions.

Noel Bourasaw grew up in the Utopia district on the northern shore of the Skagit, near Minkler Lake, and was a 1962 graduate of Sedro-Woolley High School. He has helped write and edit several history books and magazines. He also collaborated with author Patricia McAndrew on a book soon to be published, Old Soldier Goes Fishing, about railroad boomer and New York Times columnist Frank Wilkeson, who lived in Skagit and Whatcom counties from 1885-1900.

His free website www.skagitriverjournal.com was launched in 2000 and has experienced an explosion of readership. The Journal passed two million page views in the fall of 2007, making the site one of the most-read history websites outside of Seattle. The February 16 presentation is sponsored by the Concrete Chamber and the Skagit River Journal. For more information, please contact: Noel Bourasaw at skagitriverjournal@gmail.com or Valerie Stafford at concretechamber@mac.com.

Thanks to all the history lovers who attended our Burlington Library show on October 18. So many people wrote in about conflicts about this date that we have scheduled a follow-up show on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 19, from 2:45-5 p.m. in the same room. We also hope to present three or four future shows in various locations over the next year. please email Noel if you are interested in attending or have suggestions for the show.

To the FHC, enclosed, please find my grandmother. I have worked on her for 50 years without success. Now see what you can do.

I've looked for grandpa for over 20 years. Do you have him in your library?

I am sorry we do not have complete families. The trouble here is extracting the children from the minister.

Our grandfather was found dead, crossing the plains in the library.

For Sale: We have an antique desk just right for genealogy work and a lady, with thick legs, and large drawers.

Joan the Librarian

Books and some journals and magazines are being added to our library! Thank you to the members who are going through their collection of genealogical materials and setting some aside for our genealogy library. Also the family of Carol Hertz George has donated books from her collection that they thought would be useful to the Society. They all happen to be written by George K. Schweitzer, PhD. Sc.D. - New York Genealogical Research, Indiana Genealogical Research, and Massachusetts Genealogical Research. Each book has a similar format: history, maps and geography is followed by types of records ie. Bible, Biographies, Cemetery, Court, Vital Records etc. Record locations are then followed by the county listings. Civil War Genealogy is also included in the gift and will be replaced by the older copy that has been in our collection.

The magazines and journals added are:

Early American Life, various issues from 1977 & 1978, one issue contained an interesting article on making applehead dolls;

Kentucky Ancestors and the Register of the Kentucky Historical Society, both quarterlies from 1991 to 1993. Both include historical information as well as current articles of that time.

Kansas History - A Journal of the Central Plains various issues 1992 -1998. Historical articles as well as then current book reviews; a typical article, "A Prayerful Public Protest", the significance of gender in the Kansas Woman's Crusade of 1874.

Journal of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia, published in Lincoln, NE. Various issues from 2003 - 2007 and a few newsletters from the same period. Many historical and human interest articles, one such was about how the Cossacks captured children and held them for ransom, the anguish of the families notwithstanding. These publications can offer information not always found in other sources.

Members signed up for the library on Mondays are: Jan 7 - Sue Perrault, Jan 14 - Diane Partington, Jan 28, Joyce Liston Feb 4 John & Shirlee Fisher, Feb 11 Helen Bretvick, Feb 25 Lorraine Rothenbuhler, Mar 3 Margie Wilson, Mar 10 and Mar 17 Lee Matson, Mar 24 Collie Ridgeway & Mar 31 Joyce Weimer-slage. January 21 and February 18 the library will be closed for legal holidays.

Now that there is a home for the "traveling library" the rolling suitcases are in the storeroom and not being used. Does anyone have a good idea for their use or shall they be offered for sale? Both are in very good condition with extra pockets outside and inside. Make an offer and it will be brought up before the Board at the next meeting on 6 Feb.

Here is a tip for looking up information in our library collection. Use the large file drawers for subjects relating to the census, National Archives, other family histories, counties within our state of Washington as well as counties in many other states. Small pull out cards have been placed on the shelves in sections to remind researchers where the extra info can be found. Not everything is easily placed on the library shelves and folders in the file drawers will contain articles of interest that contain useful information.

Happy Researching, Joan

Newspaper Research Tips

By Mary Harrell-Sesniak
maryh@volunteer.rootsweb.com

"Genealogy is not just a pastime; it's a passion."

Pam Walton of the Humble Area Genealogical Society recently presented a program titled "Getting the Most Out of that Newspaper" at Kingwood College in Kingwood, Texas. Here are some of her research tips, which I thought you might enjoy.

1. If you find an article abstracted from a newspaper, find the original source. The more times something is rewritten, the more removed it is from the original copy and the more prone it is to errors.
2. Request newspapers from other libraries by using interlibrary loan (ILL). Upon receipt, you will have a couple of weeks to examine it before returning it.
3. Expand research to neighboring communities and order more than one newspaper for the time-frame you are researching, since articles can differ drastically from paper to paper. For example, search newspapers from smaller and larger neighboring cities; they may have reported on the same event you are researching.
4. Order issues printed ten days prior to and ten days after an event, since certain items have follow-ups. For example, a death notice, funeral notice, burial notice, and obituary would be published on different days and would include different data.
5. Watch for items frequently overlooked by researchers, such as juror lists and letters left in post offices, which indicate someone had left the area. Even advertisements can be useful; for example, you could learn about a family business.
6. Keep a research log to avoid duplicating your work. Some useful headings for your research log include the date you ordered or looked at the newspaper; the name of the paper; the names, dates, and items you are researching; your findings; and whether or not you made photocopies.
7. If possible, photocopy the whole page of the newspaper, including the title and date, even if this makes the article too small to read. Then, make an enlarged, readable copy of the article itself. Label everything on the back, including the name of the paper, the publication location and date, the volume, the page number, and the column.
8. Organize your copies carefully. One method is to create files for individual males' surnames, sorted alphabetically by the first name, and another set for females' married surnames, sorted the same way.[Columnist's recommendation: You can also keep a set with maiden names and cross-reference the files by including a sheet of paper that references the other file.]
9. Use Easybib.com or Elizabeth Shown Mills's book "Evidence Explained" to cite newspaper references properly in your family tree and other citations.

CORRECTIONS:
Somehow in that little query on "Johnson" (Nov/Dec 2007)
that I submitted a while ago, you have old email address. My correct email is jruhlman@clearwire.net. John Ruhlman.
