President's Message

Spring is near! If you're anything like me you get genealogy "Spring Fever" and want to rush into research and get on the road to all of the places you want to visit. That actually means it's time for the spring cleaning of our genealogy; the opportunity to make sure our information is up-to-date by re-reading documents and verifying their accurate transfer to family group sheets. Sometimes this lets us discover new data that didn't make sense before (or we skipped), or to see a link we previously missed. The next step is to look at the way we organize our materials, in case we've learned a more effective way for our "deluge" to be managed.

Now that you've evaluated and organized maybe you want to set up your research outline for the information you need before you leave, and your intentions on the trip....Great ideas for every spring, but especially if you're lucky enough to get to travel.

Spring is also a time for new beginnings, so my sojourn to Mount Vernon with my resource library facility is really exciting; hope you plan to join me for research or class. I'm really happy to be here; thanks for the support.

A big thank-you, as well, to all of our society volunteers; we couldn't do it without them. You can help, as well – we still need an education chairperson (to set up field trips and organize classes). Spring into a new future by volunteering.

Hugs and smiles
Laura Pemberton Sparr

Computers and Technology

Trends in genealogical research mark the increasing ease with which information can be posted on the Internet, and the ease with which it can be accessed by others. There is an inherent tendency to view facts as authoritative when they appear in print. This tendency is accentuated by our desire to find the information we seek. Computers and the technology they represent will probably never obviate the need for traditional research methods and techniques. Computers and the Internet can point you to sources and provide you with much valuable information, but until the day that actual records are all posted on the World Wide Web, you will never be able to truly trust the information you find there. For the foreseeable future, you will ALWAYS be dependent on traditional methods of research. These methods are the most reliable means of resolving the inconsistencies, contradictions and other problems with the data you may find.

Are You Using Legacy?

If you are using the genealogical database program Legacy to record your genealogical material, would you be interested in attending a special interest group? Member Arnold Stewart would like to initiate a discussion group related to this program.

Arnold is willing to coordinate the interest group, and if you are interested give

May 28-31, 2003 NGS Conference in the States For many the choices in Pittsburgh will be tough. As an example, genealogists with Pennsylvania ancestors can spend the entire conference attending presentations that discuss nothing but Pennsylvania research. But if some of those ancestors spilled over into Pennsylvania from Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey, New York or perhaps New England, then you'll be tempted to hear those presentations too. There are lectures on English and German and research too! Of course there is the problem of finding those collaterals—you know, the ones who went down the river from Pittsburgh to places like West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois or even as far away as Missouri. They will all be discussed, right here in Pittsburgh! What is a genealogist supposed to do, so many sessions to attend over four days!

Sep 3-6, 2003 FGS/FSGS 2003 Conference, hosted by the Florida State Genealogical Society at the Renaissance Orlando Resort adjacent to SeaWorld in exciting Orlando, Florida. attend over four days! Conference theme is Countdown to Discovery: A World of Hidden Treasures. Visit the FGS Website at www.fgs.org

Sep 19-20, 2003 Tri-City Gen Soc Autumn 2003 Conference, with the WSGS Annual Meeting. "Trails and Heirs of Our Ancestors" - hosted by the Tri-City Genealogical Society in Pasco, Washington. Details in upcoming newsletter and on the WSGS website.

An Update on the Washington Territorial Census Project By State Archivist Jerry Handfield

Thanks to all of you, especially the volunteers who have signed up to index Washington's territorial county censuses. Since October 2002, the Secretary of State's Office has made great strides with the posting of seven county censuses and two county naturalization indexes on our website. About ten more censuses are completed and will be posted soon. The website is :

<http://www.secstate.wa.gov/history/search.aspx>.

Please check our site regularly to see if a census from your county has been posted. By July 2003 we will have images available from all the censuses in the Washington State Archives. I would appreciate any feedback regarding our site since it was designed in part to serve genealogists and family historians.

Your amazing energy is also allowing us to expand the project to include naturalization records too. The Grant County Genealogical Society completed the first naturalization index and several more naturalization indexes will be posted soon.

The Speaker's Bureau list is also available on-line. If your group is interested in hosting a speaker on territorial history, I encourage you to consult this list which will be updated regularly. Marlys Rudeen from the Washington State Library is also creating a presentation to promote the Territorial Census project and the genealogical resources the library offers. If your society is interested in a presentation, please call Marlys at (360) 704-7132 or mrudeen@secstate.wa.gov

Again, I want to thank everyone who has contributed on this project. Together we are preserving Washington's valuable legal and historical records for future generations.
Jerry Handfield

Behind the password protection are links to the free genealogy on-line. There is no content of their own. In order to get the "5-day free trial" you have to surrender a credit card or bank account number. You have to cancel within 5 days or you get dinged. Guess what? The cancellation e-mail bounces. Does this surprise you? One person who recently fell for the come-on had his/her account dinged not once, but twice. It is time to remind folks on your state and county mailing lists about these scoundrels. It has been a couple of years since we have mentioned this. Reprinted from an online Email Mailing List.
